

Post-Event Resources

"Food Security and Access Across Cape Cod"

A SHORT LIST OF FOOD-RELATED RESOURCES FOR PEOPLE LOOKING TO GET MORE INVOLVED

Cape Cod Foundation Strategic Emergency Response Fund Grantees

Many of the nonprofit organizations who received grants from this fund are focused on food security and access. The list is updated each time we distribute new grants.

Cape Cod Hunger Network

The Cape Cod Hunger Network (CCHN) is a growing coalition of organizations, including Cape food pantries and state and local agencies, that help coordinate food security programs. The Hunger Network identifies needs on the Cape and then looks for ways to address those needs through its membership. For example, the Network provides shared freezer storage for pantries who might not have the capacity to hold the product they need. The Hunger Network also is a channel for advocacy efforts and works directly with the Greater Boston Food Bank in regard to legislative imperatives. The Cape Cod Hunger Network also provides a guide to all the local pantries. www.capecodhunernetwork.org

Cape Cod Cooperative Extension and Barnstable County Human Services

These organizations maintain up-to-date lists of food pantries and food programs and related information, including hours of operation and eligibility requirements.

Food Access Coordinator for Barnstable County

Andrea Marcely, the Food Access Coordinator for Barnstable County, is part of the Cape Cod Cooperative Extension. She is a great resource for some of the current regional work related to food access.

Cape and Islands for Good

This website, a program of the Cape and Islands United Way, is made possible by Massachusetts Service Alliance and Inspiring Service. Organizations can post their volunteer opportunities, and community members can search for opportunities. The website transitioned from Cape Cod Volunteers into its new format in October 2020.
